Barry Henderson new Banner managing editor

Hoosier newsman Barry Henderson has been named managing editor of The Daily Banner, it was announced today by Banner General Manager Tony Manuel.

Henderson, 27, comes to Greencastle from Bloomington, where he was columnist and special assignments writer for the Courier-Tribune, also a Lu-Mar Publications newspaper.

Manuel welcomed Henderson to the staff May 27, a week after Lu-Mar purchased The Banner.

He has since been handling the editorial duties and fills a position left vacant by the June 1 retirement of veteran James B. Zeis, a 43-year Banner reporter and editor.

At the Courier-Tribune, Henderson tackled city, state, county and Indiana University news, exploring the local angle for Bloomingtonians.

His column, "People", was a daily second-page cornerstone with readership in the Courier-

Tribune's six-county area. He was called regularly for feature assignments, and his specialty was profiling personalities in the public eye.

At The Banner, Henderson will head the editorial staff, supervise the collection and expansion of local news, edit the United Press International wire, establish the make-up of each day's paper, and direct editorial policy for the Lu-Mar board.

He moved to Bloomington last November from Kokomo, where he acted as city editor for the Morning Times before its untimely demise. Both the Times and the Courier-Tribune were offset papers, giving Henderson a chance to work with the most modern and efficient equipment. The Banner, which switched to offset after its plant was destroyed in the March 6 fire, will remain in that format and be printed at the Courier-Tribune while new facilities here are being built.

Prior to Kokomo, Henderson spent two years with the Wabash Plain Dealer in Wabash, Ind., moving up from sports writer through a variety of beats and assignments. He was given a leave of absence in 1966 to work in the Second District Congressional campaign.

Henderson majored in government and history at Indiana University, where he was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity and Skull and Crescent Honorary. He was editor there of a student government newsletter.

He spent three years with the U.S. Army Security Agency, including 20 months in Korea as an interpreter-translator and communications intelligence analyst. He was discharged in 1964 to return to IU.

He lists memberships in the Izaak Walton League of America, Indiana Young Democrats and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Unmarried, Henderson plans to move to Greencastle July 1.

Municipal vote gives Whitcomb the GOP nod

By EUGENE J. CADOU
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Handsome World War II hero Edgar D. Whitcomb, a Seymour attorney serving his first term as secretary of state, won first-ballot nomination for governor of Indiana Tuesday at the Republican state convention.

Whitcomb piled up an unofficial 1,253 votes, 140 more than he needed, to defeat Dr. Otis Bowen of Bremen and Dr. Earl L. Butz of West Lafayette.

Whitcomb's strength showed in the machine balloting of the big cities, with Marion County and Indianapolis leading the way.

The Whitcomb forces swept through Indianapolis, Evansville, Gary, Hammond and Fort Wayne to roll up the overwhelming total that gave him victory on the first ballot.

He likewise gained backing in some of the rural areas, where his rivals, however, generally seemed to have their greatest power. Whitcomb rural districts included the 9th, his home bailiwick, and the 7th.

Dr. Otis R. Bowen, Bremen, and Dr. Earl L. Butz, Lafayette, former head of the Purdue University school of agriculture, Whitcomb's rivals, showed strength in the 2nd, 3rd, 5th and 10th districts.

But just as the farm population has dwindled, the voting power of the soil tillers has diminished.

Final Vote

The first ballot victory was to the tune of Whitcomb 1,260, 10 votes more than he had predicted for himself; Dr. Bowen, a surprising second with 527, and Butz 429.

L. Keith Bolen, Indianapolis, Marion County chairman, and also 11th District chairman, probably was the most effective Whitcomb leader and he was promptly repaid for his efforts when the Whitcomb-bossed state committee ousted Walter Beardsley, Elkhart millionaire, as national committeeman and replaced him with Bolen, by vote of 14 to 8.

However, the Whitcomb musketeers, including State Chairman Buena Chaney, relented and failed to oust Mrs. Cecil Harden, Covington, former congresswoman, from her post as national committeewoman.

But the Whitcomb-slanted candidates rode to victory in the contests for other state nominations.

With Whitcomb's beautiful wife at his side, he addressed the convention and later held a news conference along with State Rep. William D. Ruckelshaus, who was unopposed for the nomination as United States Senator and Richard E. Folz, Evansville, nominee for lieutenant governor.

Might Raise Gas Tax
Whitcomb hinted that he might have to recommend a hike in the gasoline tax, if elected, but denounced raising property taxes.

Although the state convention's wishy-washy platform practically ignored the Vietnam War issue, Ruckelshaus discussed that problem frankly.

"I do not favor a withdrawal," he said. "We should do all in our power to live up to our commitment in behalf of freedom. But the Johnson policy in that war has failed. We should not reward failure."

Folz said he would stress greater industrial development and form teams of Hoosier industrialists to visit other states, to seek removal of factories to this state.

Only two nominations went through three ballots.

Mrs. Trudy Etherton, South Bend, was nominated for auditor on the third ballot, polling 1,143 votes to 639 for Newell Timmons, Monticello, 90 for Albert Harrison, Hobart, and 76 for Nick Polus, Anderson.

Sendak Nominated

Theodore Sendak, Crown Point, won the nomination for attorney general on ballot number three. He received a bare majority of 981 votes to 952 for Joseph Lesh, Huntington, and 23 for Clarence Mills, Indianapolis.

Folz was nominated for lieutenant governor on the second ballot. He got 1,111 votes to 764 for Charles Hendricks, Sellersburg, 204 for John P. Gallagher of Munster and 65 for John Shawley of Michigan City.

Marilou Wertzler, Muncie, was the second ballot nominee for clerk of the Supreme and Appellate Courts. She received 1,058 votes to 881 for Virginia Caylor Shannon, Indianapolis, and 114 for Roweta Stubblefield, North Vernon.

The remainder of the ticket was chosen on the first ballot. William N. Salin, Fort Wayne, Petersburg, and 147 for Philip Willkie, Rushville.

Snyder Wins Easily
Incumbent state treasurer John K. Snyder, Washington, was renominated with 1,749 votes to 408 for challenger Donald Robison of Shelbyville.

Richard Wells, Valparaiso, the incumbent state school superintendent, was renominated with 1,595 votes to 509 for James R. Beasley, Indianapolis, and 82 for Edgar Smith, Bloomington.

Richard Givan, Indianapolis, was nominated for judge of the Supreme Court with 1,363 votes to 778 for John Rabb Emison, Indianapolis.

Allen Sharp, Williamsport, and George Hoffman, Hammond, won the nominations for judgeships on the Appellate Court from the 2nd District. Sharp had 1,357 votes and Hoffman 1,196. The third candidate, Harris W. Hubbard, Angola, pulled 736 votes.

Others besides Ruckelshaus nominated without opposition included incumbent Norman Arterburn, Vincennes, for Supreme Court judge from the 1st District; and Patrick Sullivan, Indianapolis, and Joe W. Lowdermilk, Sullivan, for Appellate Court judge from the 1st District.

Ruckelshaus responded with a speech saying "if America is to survive as a free society, the Republican Party must win" the November election. "The future depends upon leadership that will say to the white and black man in America — 'Knock it off'... 'stop discriminating'... and... 'stop the violence'," he said.

Appellate Court judge, 2nd District (two to be elected) — Allen Sharp, Williamsport, and George B. Hoffman, Hammond.

Courts reporter — Marilou Wertzler, Muncie.

Drowned at Fort Wayne

FORT WAYNE—Danny McCann, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCann, Fort Wayne, was drowned in a neighbor's backyard swimming pool this week.

He was the son of the former Becky Hecko and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Hecko, 912 S. Jackson St.

According to police reports, the boy climbed over a four foot chain link fence surrounding the swimming pool.

Other survivors are two brothers, Joseph and Matthew, both at home, and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCann, Indianapolis.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday morning in Fort Wayne.

Burial will be in Indianapolis at 11 a.m. Thursday at Calvary Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, the family requested that donations be made to a memorial fund and sent to Mrs. John Foutz.

Missionaries join Poor March

Three missionaries attending the convention of some 250 United Methodist missionaries from around the world at DePauw University this week will participate in the Solidarity Day March in Washington D.C., today.

They are the Rev. George Theuer, missionary to Japan, Mrs. Sarah Williams, missionary to Chile, and the Rev. Hugh Johnson, missionary to Algeria.

Miss Marian Derby, a member of the Board of Missions in New York, accompanied the missionaries to Washington.

The supporters of the Poor People's Campaign left Tuesday morning in a plane piloted by the Rev. Theuer.

A majority of the missionaries attending the Convention on the local campus express support of the Poor People's cause.

They are in Greencastle for the Furloughed and New Missionaries Conference of the United Methodist Church. A three-day emphasis on the Poor People's Campaign, including a special offering and a "call to commitment" is planned.

Earlier in the week, a petition was circulated expressing the support. The petition, which was taken to Washington, reads as follows:

We the undersigned missionaries and staff of the Board of Missions of the United Methodist Church, acutely sensitive to the evils of poverty abroad as well as in this country, and meeting at Greencastle, Indiana, for the Furloughed and New Missionaries Conference, June 14-23, express our wholehearted support of the Poor People's Campaign. We urge Congress to increase health services to the poor, to expand Federal food distribution programs, to expand job training opportunities for the poor, to pass comprehensive laws that will provide low income housing on a massive scale, and to establish an equitable form of minimum income maintenance toward the end that poverty may be eradicated in this nation.

The scandal of grinding poverty in the midst of plenty within the borders of the United States is a denial in our national life of the principles and ideals we so openly proclaim as desirable for the world at large. We deplore the built-in inequities and what seems to be the continued apathy on the part of Congress and certain government agencies to the seriousness of poverty and malnutrition in this nation.

We applaud the Poor People's Campaign for bringing the plight of the poor before the conscience of the country. The goals of the campaign are, in fact, the goals of the nation. As an expression of our support and in Christian concern we are sending four of our members to represent us in the Solidarity Day March this Wednesday.

Dr. King's last dream

By HENRY P. LEIFERMANN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Martin Luther King's last dream, the Poor People's Campaign, marshaled for a climactic march to the Lincoln Memorial today demanding food and jobs for the nation's needy.

"This may be the last chance to solve America's problems nonviolently," said King's widow, Coretta, on the eve of "Solidarity day."

Campaign leaders hoped for a turnout of up to 100,000 for the pilgrimage to the shrine of the great emancipator, where King made his historic "I have a dream" speech in the 1963 civil rights march on Washington.

Black activists promised in a handshake vow given King before he was assassinated to leave the marchers to their avowed peaceful protests.

Troops Alerted

But as a precaution, District of Columbia police called in police reserves, 1,150 local National Guardsmen were called to duty, and the Pentagon put several thousand nearby federal troops on various stages of alert readiness.

Cataract drowning

A seventeen-year-old Indianapolis youth was drowned in Cataract Lake Tuesday afternoon. He was Clay McIntosh, Jr., of 3244 Thurston Drive.

According to state police reports, McIntosh and John May, also of Indianapolis, were fishing from a canoe on the lake when they decided to go swimming.

Witnesses at the scene reported seeing McIntosh go under but didn't see him surface.

The body was recovered late in the afternoon by Indiana State Police and conservation officers.

City police 'shoot for' protection

By Penny Blaker
Of The Banner Staff

Protection is the chief duty of any law officer whether he patrols in Greencastle, Indianapolis, New York City or Chicago.

To give the best protection possible to the citizens of this town, the policeman must be trained. Policemen in Greencastle are now receiving special training in the handling of fire arms, a skill that is advantageous to both the officers and the citizens. For the men of the law can better protect the citizens and themselves.

It is the first such program for the Greencastle police.

A new target range is being constructed (it is not quite finished) by the local officers on Columbia Street, west of town.

Each of the 12 officers are required to go to the range to practice shooting. Sometime in September the police department hopes to have a supervised match. A trophy or an "off-duty" pistol will be awarded to the officer with the highest score.

Capt. William Masten notes that the department will accept contributions toward the trophy. He is quick to point out that the policemen are not soliciting...but any assistance will be appreciated.

Sgt. James Grimes is firearms instructor for the squad and is directing the training program.

The training program is rigorous. At seven yards in a two hand squat position officers fire 12 rounds of ammunition in 25 seconds.

At 25 yards in a point shoulder position they fire six rounds each in three different stances: kneeling, weak hand and strong hand. All are fired 25 yards from the target.

Two minutes and 45 seconds are allowed for 50 yard shots. Six rounds are directed at four positions: sitting, prone, weak hand and strong hand.

The black targets, formed like a man, are marked for scoring with designated areas of the body rating high and low in points. The echoes of rapid succesions of gunfire in the west side of town are nothing to fear. Through the training program, Greencastle policemen will be better equipped for defense in time of trouble.

CAPT. WILLIAM MASTEN, of the Greencastle Police force, aims and fires at a target on the shooting range on Columbia Street. City policemen are participating in a firearms training program for better protection.

Remaining in the same posts are Dr. K. K. Merryman, Indianapolis; Dr. C. David Hancock, Terre Haute, and Dr. Charles P. Stanton, New Albany.

DEAR HELOISE:

I find kitchen trash baskets retain odors so I scrub mine with scouring powder, rinse it carefully, and it smells and looks good for quite awhile.

However, if I put a thin layer of scouring powder in the bottom of the kitchen wastebasket (since it gets the most abuse), all I have to do is wipe it with a wet paper towel to get it clean. None of the usual hard scouring.

And the minute amount of bleach in the scouring powder acts as a disinfectant.

DEAR HELOISE:

When putting my sweaters away, I roll them instead of folding. Then store in plastic bags.

They're free of dust and creases when I'm ready to wear them next season.

Mrs. Jim McKinley

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's how I keep all names and telephone numbers of people I call often and also emergency numbers:

I just cut the name and telephone number out of the telephone book with a razor blade and paste them in my little book.

This way I don't have to go through the large phone book to find the numbers when I'm in a hurry.

Mrs. K. B. P.

DEAR HELOISE:

Being an amateur cook (it's a hobby which has resulted in my doing most of the culinary chores around our house), I happened to stumble onto a new wrinkle that may be of interest to your female readers.

After frying beef steak or veal, or with the drippings from beef or veal roasts, I use water to make the gravy. For poultry and pork drippings, I use milk, or condensed milk and water.

Depending on how much gravy we want, I pour off part of the grease, pour in the liquid I want to use and then stir in the thickening immediately. Before the liquid has even started to heat. Sure prevents lumpy gravy.

As it cooks, I stir continually, adding either thickening or more liquid for the right consistency.

After seasoning, it pours or dips like a cream soup and is delicious.

DEAR HELOISE:

I wonder if you would tell your readers that when they use commemorative stamps on letters to please place it back about 1/4" from the corner of the envelope.

Collectors like a little margin of the envelope to remain on the stamp. And this way there is less damage to the stamp when it's removed.

Nina E.

DEAR HELOISE:

My two little girls like canned vegetable-beef soup for lunch, but it seems so thin after being diluted.

I finally got the idea to thicken it with some canned peas, corn, or green beans. A different one each time for variety.

It's also a good place to use that dab of leftover vegetables from last night's supper.

It makes the soup much tastier and the children like it even more. Also, it's better for them.

Barbara Waring

DEAR HELOISE:

I keep each child's out-of-season clothes (clean but unironed) in a box on the shelf in his own closet.

I add garments that I may decide to make over for this or a smaller child.

I am usually pretty well set when the next season rolls around without having to search all over the storage area for what I want in an emergency, need to remake or alter when my machine is out.

Mrs. Mabel Sheppard

Vows to end House of Lords

By JOHN J. MEEHAN

LONDON (UPI) — Angry members of the House of Commons today vowed they would abolish the House of Lords for its defiance in rejecting Britain's long-sought world trade ban against Rhodesia.

At least 70 members of the majority Labor party joined a campaign to silence forever the peers' weak voice in British affairs, so weak the trade ban rejection will be ineffective.

That number falls far short of the votes necessary to pass such an abolition, however. Of Commons' 630 seats Labor holds 349 and parliamentary sources said the Labor leader in the lower house, Fred Peart, would block anything as drastic as dissolution of the House of Lords.

The upper house voted 193 to 184 Tuesday to veto a government order—already passed in Commons—to ban all trade with Rhodesia. The former African colony declared itself independent of Britain three years ago in a dispute over government plans to give Rhodesia's black majority full voting rights.

Some Labor party leaders said the narrow vote in the Conservative-packed House of Lords was a moral victory for Labor, and it was apparent the Lords would not try again to stop the trade ban's passage.

The order goes back to the House of Commons where it received a strong 319-246 endorsement Monday. Conservative party leaders in the upper house have indicated they will not try again to defeat it.

The Rhodesia trade ban is one approved by the United Nations last month in a long struggle by Britain.

Birthstones are lucky talismans glowing with rainbow hues—and are usually quite modestly priced.

We have them in rings, pins, cuff links, tie tacks—in designs suitable for either men or women.

Warning: Proceed with caution

By PAUL R. JESCHKE
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Discreetly-worded warning to surgeons to proceed cautiously in heart transplants was placed Tuesday before the American Medical Association convention. Although no direct criticism was leveled at doctors who have already performed transplant operations, a four page report called, in guarded tones, for immediate improvement in present standards.

"The word is that some heart surgeons are very unhappy about the circumstances under which transplantation has been attempted," said a delegate.

"Nobody wants to say so in so many words, but the medical ethics in a few of these cases have been pretty shaky. There's too much of a rush to get in on the ground floor."

Since last December, 21 heart transplants have been attempted in the world. More operations presently are under consideration at several major institutions.

AMA's Judicial Council

The warning was contained in a report, entitled "Ethical Guidelines for Organ Transplan-tation," submitted to the AMA's Judicial Council. It is subject to final action by the House of Delegates, the official policy making arm of the medical group.

Although doctors in general, and the AMA in particular, are reluctant to publicly criticize each other, a delegate noted the report was "generally aimed at one or two surgeons who have used their patients as guinea pigs when there were more direct courses of action which might have prolonged their lives."

The delegate, who requested anonymity "for professional reasons," said committee members who drafted the report were "unhappy about the self-serving publicity" resulting from some transplant operations. He said members noted some surgeons rushed "from the operating room to the news conference so they could make the afternoon papers."

The committee also was aware, he said, of controversy arising as to when heart donors were legally dead. The dispute, he said, "doesn't leave a very good taste in anybody's mouth."

The last series of guidelines, dealing mainly with use of newly developed drugs, were adopted by the Judicial Council in 1966 before the flurry of organ transplants throughout the world.

New, broader policies are being devised "for the guidance of physicians as they seek to maintain the highest level of ethical conduct in their patients."

The sand tiger is a cannibal even before it is born, the National Geographic says. The eggs of the sand tiger hatch within the mother's uterus. The first baby to emerge feeds on its weaker brothers and sisters in turn. As there are two separate uteruses, two young sand tigers survive to be born.

Lucky youths expelled

MOSCOW (UPI) — Three "lucky" young Britons were expelled from the Soviet Union Tuesday after police grilled them for nine hours on their attempts to distribute leaflets demanding freedom for jailed Soviet dissidents.

The two youths and a girl risked up to seven years imprisonment on charges of handing out what is regarded here as "anti-Soviet literature" when they tried to give "Christian Marxist" pamphlets to Russians in crowded Mayakovsky Square Monday.

Police freed them after a night of investigation and ordered them to leave "on the first available plane." The three were put aboard a Paris-bound jetliner by an officer of the British Embassy less than 24 hours after the arrest.

"They are very lucky," said British Vice Consul Brian Banks, who escorted them to the steps of the aircraft at Sheremetyevo Airport.

Observers believed the Soviet authorities decided to sidestep more unpleasant publicity and legal proceedings and treat the Monday incident as of little consequence.

The three young Britons, lay preacher Vivian Broughton, 21; student John Careswell, 22, and secretary Janette Hammond, 21, refused to talk to reporters about their interrogation but said they were "well treated."

Broughton, who wore a silver crucifix around his neck, said police offered them food during the questioning but they refused because they were fasting.

The British Embassy officer offered the Britons caviar sandwiches and lemonade at the airport snack bar but they again refused to eat.

Ban on mail order guns approved

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Johnson administration's proposal to ban mail order sales of rifles and shotguns was approved, 9 to 0, Tuesday by a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

The subcommittee first defeated an attempt to soften the impact of the bill, then sent the measure to the full Judiciary Committee. The committee is scheduled to meet Wednesday, with strong indications it will approve the bill for floor action.

The juvenile delinquency subcommittee, after approving the bill, scheduled hearings next week on other gun control legislation, including measures to require registration of all firearms and permits to own them.

Although no subcommittee members voted against the administration measure, several senators pointed out it did not mean all favored the bill. Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said he was opposed to it.

At a closed, two-hour session, the subcommittee first rejected an attempt by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., to soften the impact of the bill.

By a 6-3 vote, the group refused to simply amend a ban on mail order sales of handguns that is included in the omnibus anticrime bill by adding a ban on such sales of rifles and shotguns.

After the subcommittee voted to report the bill, Hruska promptly announced he would support it.

Hruska, chief Senate foe in the past of legislation to ban mail order sales of any guns, had already disclosed that he would support the administration measure.

Club meets

Club Sixteen Extension Homemakers met for the June meeting at the home of Mrs. Loretta Kessler.

A lesson on mattresses and carpets was given by Russell Beatty and E.F. Jenner from Rus-sells Furniture. A drawing was held by the gentlemen and the winners were Mrs. Joan Cash, Mrs. Crystal Woods and Mrs. Carolyn Murray. Each member received a yardstick.

The club door prize was won by Mrs. Betty Rector. She also received her June birthday gift. Entertainment was presented by Mrs. Rita Ozmert, with the prize going to Mrs. Marjorie Cash.

The meeting was adjourned with the serving of refreshments.

In English history, a "pocket borough" is a borough under the political control of an individual, carrying representation to Parliament.

Community Club has picnic

The New Maysville Community Club held a picnic and meeting, June 14, in the Greencastle Park.

Eileen Gowin opened the meeting after the dinner by reading the thought of the month. She also gave the devotions.

Roll call was answered by reading poems, including "Town of Don't Worry," "It Did No Harm," "Picnic Memories," "The Duck," "My Friend," "A Nation's Life" and others.

Eleanor McMullon gave four contests as entertainment. There were eight members present and five guests: Mark Major, Brad Evans, and Brenda, Lana and Loretta Tipin.

Farm Bureau social features cake contest

A cake contest will be a special feature of the Farm Bureau Social, Saturday evening, June 22.

The evening will also be highlighted with a talent contest and will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Farm Bureau building.

Anyone attending may enter a cake in the contest. Cakes will be judged in four classes: sponge, chocolate, butter and miscellaneous. Prizes will be awarded for the top three cakes in each class.

The ice cream will be furnished by the Putnam County Farm Bureau. Those attending are asked to furnish table service.

Rockefeller wants GOP presidential nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller took his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination to GOP congressional members Tuesday, suggesting that his coattails are stronger than Richard M. Nixon's.

Rockefeller spoke about 35 minutes at a closed breakfast session with more than 100 Republican congressmen at the Capitol.

As part of his strategy to stress a long record of election victories, the New York governor made the point that no incumbent GOP congressmen in his state had been defeated when he headed the ticket.

"Coattail power" may be of some concern to members of Congress, who saw a number of their GOP colleagues lose in 1964 when the Republican national ticket was swamped. Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y.,

said the audience was "very receptive."

Rockefeller also used another key gambit of his campaign — placing emphasis on public opinion polls showing him to be a potential winner in November.

The governor disclosed the results of a private poll, said to have been ordered by Philadelphia's Republican chairman, which he said showed Rockefeller running ahead of Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey, but Nixon as a decisive loser to the vice president.

Rockefeller's accelerated campaign, both in personal campaigning and advertising, included the third of a series of full page advertisements in 40 major newspapers Tuesday.

The emphasis in the ad, on Vietnam policy, was Rockefeller's contention that U.S. policy has been based on a series of outmoded, mistaken foreign policy theories, and because of that has gone sour.

Enrolled at cheerleader workshop

Several area teenagers are currently enrolled in the first session of two one-week Cheerleader Workshops at Vincennes University.

Attending from Greencastle High School are Sally Sendmeyer, Beth Briggs, Carla Bundy, Herbie Buis, Cindy Thompson, Marla Stanley and Karl Kyle.

Sue Mundy, Belinda Rector, Shelly Chastain and Rita Flater are representing Fillmore High School.

Roachdale High School cheerleaders participating in the workshop are Jo Jo Hennon, Beverly Hert, Vickie Rohn and Betty Duncan.

At total of 707 high school students from a five state area are enrolled in the workshop.

The boys and girls represent varsity and junior varsity cheerleading teams from 125 high schools. They are being directed by a professional staff of 19 members of the National Cheerleaders Association.

Friday, Miss Stephanie Crane, Miss Teenage America, will address the group for the closing session and join in a parade through downtown Vincennes.

Treat Your Tootsies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Irving Yale, president of the American Podiatry Association, wants Americans to start taking care of their feet as well as they do other parts of the anatomy.

"People's feet start hurting because people don't take proper care of them," he said. "The idea that foot troubles must be accepted as a fact of life is as outmoded as the mustard plaster."

West Berlin subjected to series of post war crisis

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

It was almost precisely at this same date 20 years ago that the Soviet Union subjected West Berlin to its first great postwar crisis by imposing the Berlin blockade—to which the Western allies replied with the greatest airlift in history.

In the intervening years, West Berlin has lived through other times of crisis as the Soviets and their East German satellites sought twin objectives—Western recognition of the East German regime and the economic strangulation of West Berlin.

On Nov. 27, 1958, there was Nikita S. Khrushchev's ultimatum that within six months he would turn over full authority to the East German government, including control of the vital canal and highway access routes to West Berlin.

A Breed Apart
But the tough West Berliners, a breed apart, took their vacations in West Germany early so as to be home again in time for the deadline.

A tough American general who was prepared to blast his way through any attempted East German blockade. If necessary, summed up their feelings this way to this correspondent:

"The West Berliners are apprehensive but unafraid."

But the May 27 deadline came and went and Khrushchev backed down.

On Aug. 13, 1961, came the Berlin Wall and West Berlin lost 60,000 workers from its labor force.

Better Housing
Housewives went back to work, the West German government offered special tax incentives to industry and to workers better housing than in the rest of Germany.

Nonetheless, through the years, West Berlin has suffered a general erosion.

Ten years ago it already was becoming a city of the old. Fifteen per cent of its population was more than 60 years old. Today the figure is over 20 per cent.

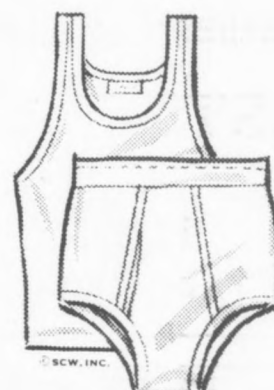

Through the years, it annually lost 15,000 to 20,000 of its workers responding to offers

Dodson Hopes Fans Will Stick With 'The Andy Griffith Show'

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jack Dodson, the rattlebrained county clerk of Mayberry in "The Andy Griffith Show," says he will have to help take up the slack next season when Andy leaves the series after eight years.

Jack has played the small town fustbudget, Howard Sprague, for two years and hopes the locked-in Griffith audience will remain faithful for seasons yet to come.

In private life Dodson is faithful to art director Mary Weaver, whom he married in 1959. They are the parents of Cristina, 3 months.

The Dodson family lives in a San Fernando valley apartment with two bedrooms, three baths and a den. But they are looking for larger quarters now that Cristina has joined the clan.

An accomplished artist, Mary has decorated their home with antiques brought west from their Manhattan home three years ago.

Carpentry and refinishing furniture are Dodson's principal hobbies. A native of Pittsburgh, Jack doesn't take particular delight in the outdoors. He and Mary, however, do enjoy visits to the beach during the summer months.

Regular Hours

Because the Griffith crew and cast have worked together for so many years, Dodson has regular working hours—8 a.m. to 6 p.m. It's a 20-minute drive to the Desilu studios for Dodson in his expensive, late model coupe.

Mary currently is on leave of absence from NBC to care for Cristina. Jack says she is still undecided whether to return to work or remain a full-time housewife and mother.

"We've found some pretty warm friends among the people on my show," Dodson says. "And it hasn't taken us long to feel right at home in California."

Restrictions of size in the apartment prevent the Dodsons from entertaining as much as they would like; another reason for their house-hunting.

Dodson spent 10 years in the theater before joining the Griffith series. So far, he says, he doesn't miss working before a live audience.

"By the time 1964 rolled around I was ready to leave New York," he says. "There weren't many good plays around and those that did show up had short runs. Television had left the city entirely. So it was time for me to come to Hollywood."

Before landing his regular spot with Griffith, he worked in several shows, comedies, westerns and dramas in guest roles.

Dodson says Mary learned to cook within the past two years and specializes in Italian food, which saves Jack the trouble of visiting restaurants frequently.

Fortunately, Jack had some old clothes left over from his younger days, and they are the ones he wears on the show. Off-screen he prefers conservative, yet groovy, sports clothes.

Horticultural Tip

This widely distributed and common pest feeds on both evergreens and deciduous trees and shrubs. Evergreens defoliated by bagworms may die.

They overwinter as eggs in last year's spindle-shaped bags, which hang from trees and shrubs. Newly hatched larvae are easily overlooked. After leaving the mother bag a small larva feeds on nearby foliage and begins to build a tough bag for itself with silken thread and bits of foliage from the host plant.

Each bag is enlarged to accommodate the rapidly growing larva inside and is carried everywhere the larva goes. By late summer the bag is 1 1/2" to 2" long when the larva matures and transforms to the adult stage. Because only the male adult flies, infestations of bagworms are spread principally in the larval and egg stages.

Small larvae suspended by their silken threads will be carried by the wind for considerable distances. Larger larvae often crawl from one plant to another in search of food.

Spray as soon as possible with one of the following: Diazinon, Lead arsenate, Malathion (CAUTION may injure canna red cedar) or Toxaphene. Use a stick-sprayer on evergreens.

Feminine horizon

By HORTENSE MYERS

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Republican nominee for governor of Indiana is certain to be a man who trusts his wife to drive the car while he works on his speeches, reads mail or sleeps.

During interviews with Pat Whitcomb, Beth Bowen and Mary Emma Butz, each mentioned that she often drives for her husband.

All three have traveled with their husbands many thousands of miles as they campaigned for nomination.

The Whitcombs

Secretary of State Edgar Whitcomb's wife, Pat, recalled that earlier this year "we campaigned at a rather leisurely pace."

"But the past couple of months, it has been rather intense. Sometimes we travel the length of the state two times a week, and I do quite a bit of the driving," she said.

Mrs. Whitcomb also writes letters and makes phone calls for her husband, whom she met while she was working as a fashion model for an Indianapolis department store and he was a bachelor state senator.

"Only once have I spoken at a delegate meeting for him," she said. "He is the candidate and he should do the talking."

The Whitcombs have five children—John, 6, Alice, 8, Shelley, 10, Ann, 13, and Patricia, 14. Their mother is concerned about the time away from the children even though other members of the family are serving as adequate supervisors.

"The children are well cared for but we do miss them," she said. Mrs. Louise Whitcomb, Ed's mother, lives with her son and his family in Seymour.

The family attends Seymour Methodist Church where Mrs. Whitcomb has been a Sunday school teacher.

The Bowens

Beth Bowen also said that "I have done half of the driving" for her husband, Dr. Otis Bowen, a Bremen physician.

"He opens mail and writes speeches as I drive the car," she explained. "We have driven 70,000 miles, all in Indiana." They have gone to the homes and business of many of the delegates to the state convention, in addition to meeting them at receptions and rallies. Beth, a former court reporter, also types for her husband.

The Bowens met while his father, was teaching in Crown Point, Beth's home city, and Otis, a student at Indiana Uni-

SICK CALL President Johnson chats with former President Eisenhower in Walter Reed Hospital, Washington. Ike is recuperating from a heart attack suffered on the west coast.

Eisenhower shows good improvement

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is making "very encouraging progress" in his recovery from a major heart attack Saturday night, doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital reported Tuesday.

A medical bulletin issued at 10 a.m. EDT said the 77-year-old general "spent a very comfortable night."

"There has been no recurrence of chest pain and his progress in the past 24 hours has been very encouraging," the bulletin said.

"His activities are being restricted to brief visits with members of his immediate family."

Doctors promised another bulletin on Eisenhower's condition at 10 a.m. EDT.

Farm front

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For about 3.6 million poor Americans, the government's food donation program now means a family of four carries home 107 pounds of 16 or more assorted foods every month.

Soon, because of recent moves to broaden the variety of foods the Agriculture Department is giving away, the total may go to nearly 140 pounds of 22 different foods monthly.

This federal market basket includes one item found in the gourmet sections of big supermarkets — two pounds of whole cracked bulgur wheat, often labeled "old world pilaf."

The monthly distribution varies slightly from area to area. Dry split peas are not acceptable in some localities. and rice is less popular than potatoes in others, for example. But on the national average, these are the items provided for a family of four:

Eight pounds of beans 2 pounds of bulgur (whole cracked) wheat, 5 pounds of butter or margarine, 6 1/4 pounds of processed cheese, 2 pounds of corn grits, 10 pounds of cornmeal, 20 pounds of all-purpose flour, 4 pounds of lard or shortening, 7 1/2 pounds of canned meat, 18 pounds of nonfat dry milk, 2 pounds of peanut butter, 2 pounds of dry split peas, 4 pounds of dehydrated potatoes, 3 pounds of raisins, 8 pounds of rice, and 6 pounds of rolled oats or rolled wheat.

"With this variety, the package approaches reasonable nutrition levels," said Neill W. Freeman, director of the commodity distribution division.

Officials repeatedly have stressed that the package is not a complete diet.

On the lighter side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The late Sam Rayburn used to say, "Any jackass can kick a barn down, but it takes a carpenter to build one."

Sometimes I have a feeling that old Sam may have been trying to tell us something.

I'm not certain the following is what he had in mind, but I offer it anyway as one of the fables for our times:

The Carpenter and the Donkey
Once in the distant land of Pilgrims Pride a carpenter and a donkey lived together in a barn.

One day the donkey approached the carpenter and said, "There's a big knothole in the north side of the barn. It's letting in a lot of cold air. Since you built the barn, you should be the one to repair it."
"Fine," the carpenter said, "I'll get to work on it right away."

As the carpenter took out his tools and began measuring the knothole preparatory to cutting a plug to fit it, the donkey said, "It will take you all day to get it done that way."

Whereupon the donkey raised his hind legs and gave a powerful kick, which knocked down the entire north side of the barn.

"That should take care of it," the donkey said.

"You certainly got rid of the knothole, all right," the carpenter said.

The next day as the carpenter was preparing to rebuild the north side of the barn, the donkey reported he had found a loose board in the south side.

"I'll nail it back as soon as I finish here," the carpenter said. "Action now!" the donkey said, and proceeded to kick down the south side of the barn.

"Do you ever have a feeling you may be over-solving the problem?" the carpenter asked.

"Well, at least the loose board is gone," the donkey replied.

When on the following day the donkey noticed that the east side of the barn was out of plumb, he didn't bother to consult the carpenter, who obviously was still hung-up on yesterday's problems.

Instead, he gave it a mighty kick, at which point the roof collapsed, pinning the donkey and the carpenter underneath.

"Now look at the mess you've gotten us into," the donkey said. "I warned you to hurry up with those repairs."

Moral: There is more than one way to fix a barn.

Coatesville news

BY JOE DAVIDSON

The Coatesville Public Library is sponsoring a Reading Club, which began June 15. The club is open to all children, grades 1 through 6, owning library cards. At the end of the program, July 20, certificates and awards will be presented. Each child is to read in his own grade level or higher.

Mr. and Mrs. Carol Wood of Indianapolis were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Allee.

The local fire department was called at 5:25 Tuesday evening to the home of Luther Campbell's property on Water Street. A motor on a washing machine was blazing and had several people excited. The fire was soon extinguished and the damage was slight.

A miscellaneous bridal shower was given by the members of the Good Samaritan Class of the United Methodist Church in honor of Miss Connie Jamison on Saturday afternoon at the church.

Coatesville citizens were shocked when news spread of the accidental death of Charles Buis. Mrs. Mable Davidson recalls Charles as one of her students several years ago in the Belle Union High School.

Sunday, June 16, was Father's Day, or better known by most youngsters as Dad's Day. There are countless varieties of dads, some good, some bad and a lot of indifferent ones. A father is recalled that was seen one day on the street of a county seat town. He was drunk and staggering. A crying wife had him by the arm trying to guide him while two boys of some eight and ten years held to his coat and as they sobbed they begged to be taken home. The foundation for a Father's Day was not built on this kind of shaking structure. There comes to mind another dad with two sons that he loved to work with and loved to instruct. He set jobs for them whereby they could earn the money for shoes, a saddle or an overcoat. He purchased good books. He never told tainted stories before any boy nor did he swear. Many a Sunday he taught an adult Sunday school class. He was the type of father that has brought to us a day set aside to do honor to "dear old dad."

Joseph Johnson, age 7, is staying with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Davidson, for the next week while his father and mother are in Canada. On Saturday afternoon he was taken to the Holcolm Observatory at Butler University to hear a lecture on the sun, moon and earth. He and several other children were later taken up to the roof of the observatory to see the thirty-eight inch telescope. The children and a few adults were interested in the many large photographs of the "Horsehead," the giant, swirling worlds-in-the-making and other wonders trillions of miles in space.

There is something like magic in the stars and other bodies so far away. To children the meteors, asteroids and the mystic "Coal Sack" are awe inspiring. What a treat it would be to listen to talks on astronomy by the great scientist Harlow Shapley formerly of Harvard University.

Townpeople, farmers, gardeners and everyone are so busy doing chores these days that exciting news is hard to come by. Strawberry season has been very good, with high quality fruit.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Powell of Franklin, Ind., were callers Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bottorff. Later in the day they drove to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Johnson where they were dinner guests.

The Rev. John Webb gave the best Father's Day address Sunday morning at the local United Methodist Church that a large and interested congregation has heard in many a Sunday. This was his third and last Sunday for he will be moving to Morris-town next Friday to become the Methodist pastor there. He said before leaving the Coatesville church that he appreciated the opportunity to be with a friendly and interested membership and would always have pleasant memories concerning this church.

The local Methodist members are wondering who will be sent by conference to take over their church this coming year.

For the June Friday Club, Mable Davidson had a morning breakfast June 13. At ten o'clock she served an attractive breakfast of sweet rolls, tiny donuts, big home grown strawberries and coffee.

The regular June program followed the breakfast. Mrs. Laura Biehl used Father's Day as her topic for the program. She read two articles from the June Sunshine Magazine. They were entitled "Let Us Honor Him" and "Guideposts for Fathers." Each of the ten members present contributed to the program with special remembrances of their fathers.

During the social hour the hostess took the members on a tour through her flower and vegetable garden.

Issue restraining order

HAMMOND, Ind. (UPI) — A restraining order was issued Monday against school officials of Hobart Twp. over a policy of not allowing teachers to remove unsigned contracts from principal's offices so they may be examined at home.

Lake Superior Judge James

J. Richard issued the order and set June 28 for a hearing on an injunction.

Named defendants in the action were Lake County School Supt. William Purcell and Hobart Twp. Trustee Clark Johnson. The complaint was signed by Peter Orlich and Arthur Willing of the 145-member Hobart Twp. Teachers Association.

Orlich and Willing said the action was supported by the Indiana State Teachers Association.

The order issued Monday said the school administration's practice of requiring teachers to sign their contracts for the coming school year in the office of the principal "shall cease immediately."

The complaint charged coercion and illegal procedure in violation of teachers' rights.

ISTA officials said the case was similar to one in Fort Wayne a year ago when an Allen County judge issued a restraining order against the same practice of requiring teachers to sign their contracts in principals' offices. Eventually several school officials were charged with contempt of court but the case finally was dropped when an out-of-court agreement was reached.

Seek help at Parke County Center

Two persons are needed to work in the Parke County Children's Memorial Activity Center, sponsored by the Parke County Association for Parents and Friends of Retarded Children, Inc.

The announcement was made by the board of directors.

Paul Stone, executive director, stated that applications are now being taken for activity leaders, to begin work in September, and for a secretary/bookkeeper to begin work immediately.

According to Stone, qualifications for the activity leader include, a high school education or the equivalent, interest in and understanding of the mentally retarded, experience in working with children (4-H, Sunday School, scout work, etc.), and the willingness to attend service training programs in the field of special education.

According to Stone, qualifications required to the secretary/bookkeeper are as follows: a high school education or the equivalent; an interest in and the understanding of the mentally retarded; skills in book-keeping, filing and typing; and flexibility and willingness to fill in as needed.

Stone said that all interested persons should either write to the Activity Center, Box 96, Rockville, or visit the Center between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. at 602 Howard Ave., or phone 569-5703 for application blanks and interview dates.

-West Berlin

from the more relaxed atmosphere of Munich, Dusseldorf or Frankfurt. Last year 25,000 workers left the city.

When the Communists erected the Berlin Wall in 1961 it was a clear violation of four-power agreements but before the Western allies could react it already was an accomplished fact.

East Germany's newly announced decision to require visas of West Germans travelling by land to isolated West Berlin and to raise taxes on goods being shipped to and from West Berlin also have been denounced as invalid.

Nevertheless, they already are being put into effect.

Marines smash Cong attack, expect more

SAIGON (UPI)—The blood of 317 North Vietnam troops smeared the jungle slopes around the outposts of the northern frontier Marine fort of Khe Sanh. today. The signs were that the Communists would be back—possibly all summer long.

Leathernecks killed 131 of the attackers Tuesday, in the same spot and in the same manner that they killed 186 others in a first North Vietnam attempt to overrun the outposts Saturday.

Marine losses Tuesday were 11 men killed and 30 wounded. Saturday they suffered 16 dead and 61 wounded. American intelligence sources predicted these were only battles in the special war around Khe Sanh.

Elements of two North Vietnam divisions failed to take Khe Sanh in months of attacks earlier this year. But the Marine bastion is the key to the northwestern corner of South Vietnam.

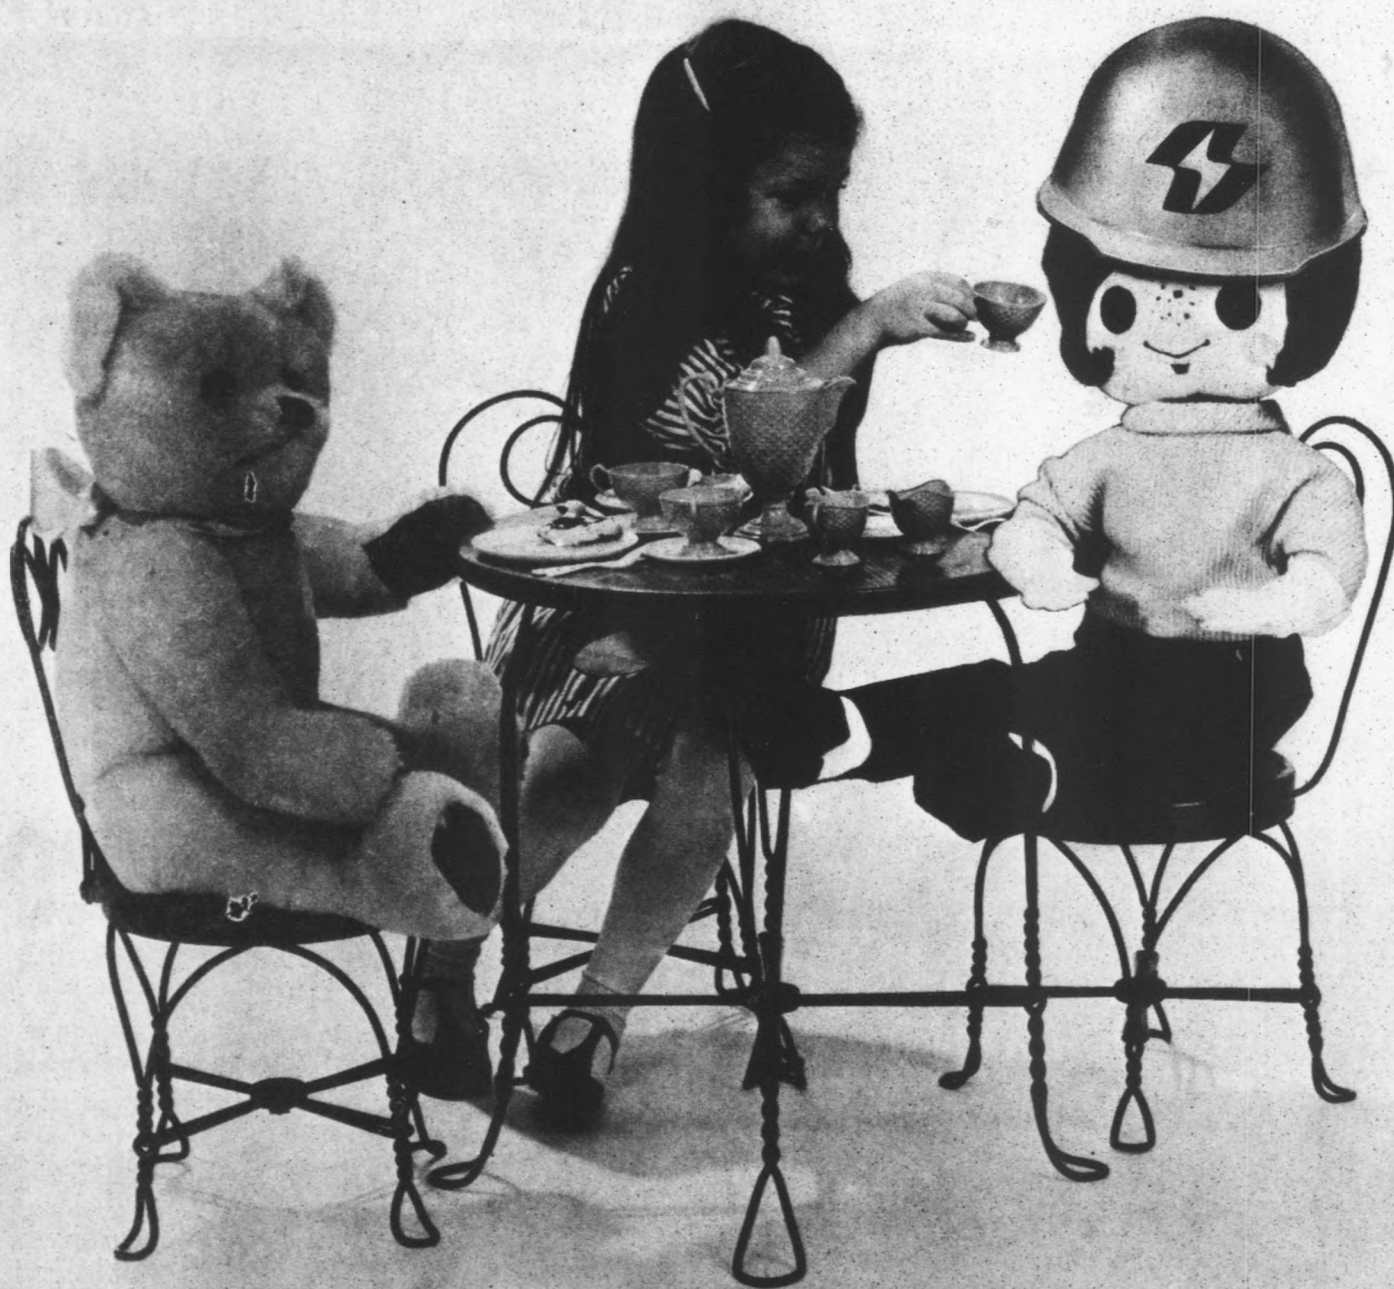

According to the U.S. sources, American commanders were so sure of more trouble that at least one Marine unit which had been scheduled to pull back today was being kept in place indefinitely.

The outposts are atop hills that guard the plateau on which Khe Sanh sits. Tuesday, as on Saturday, the North Vietnamese began with a heavy mortar barrage, then they surged at the Leathernecks' barbed wire defenses. The Marines opened up with machine guns and mortars. U.S. airplanes and artillery joined the deadly rain of death. The North Vietnamese stopped and they fell back. They were expected to regroup for another try. The Marines of Khe Sanh waited.

In other developments:

—U.S. military sources said North Vietnamese helicopters today—for the fourth day in a row—appeared over the northern frontier battle zone. Their mission was not known. U.S. Marines in the area were reported beefing up their anti-aircraft defenses. In Tokyo, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, just departed U.S. commander in Vietnam, told newsmen that use of helicopters would make the Communists easier targets for allied forces.

—For the first time in two days Viet Cong terror shells struck Saigon again Tuesday night.

DPU claims third spot

DePauw University has claimed third in the running for the Indiana Collegiate Conference all-sports trophy for 1967-68.

Indiana State, which won titles in wrestling, swimming, golf, and track and shared the basketball crown with DePauw, earned 51½ points out of a possible 56 in the eight varsity sports to win the all-sports trophy.

The finish behind Indiana State included Ball State 45, DePauw 33, Valparaiso 31½, Evansville 22, Butler 21, and St. Joseph's 14.

Outpointing all other six ICC teams with 1-2 finishes in the major spectator sports of basketball and football, the Tigers also added a third place in golf, fourth place finishes in cross country and wrestling, fifth places in track and swimming, and a sixth place in baseball.

Ball State and Valparaiso gathered the three championships that escaped Indiana State and DePauw. Ball State claimed titles in cross country and football and Valparaiso captured baseball. The Tigers probably would have won the tennis tournament had it been held.

For the first time in history no tennis champion was determined because the tourney at which the winner is decided was rained out. A coaches' decision to determine the winner on the basis of season records was overruled by the league's athletic directors. A final ruling is pending.

As a result of its success in ICC competition this year DePauw had three varsity coaches selected as Coach of the Year in the respective sports. Tom Mont was chosen ICC COTY in football, Elmer McCall was named in basketball, and Charlie Erdmann was accorded similar honors in tennis where his squad finished 6-0 in ICC dual competition.

Odds are against Hank

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Is Hank Aaron destined to be the man who equals or surpasses Babe Ruth's lifetime total of 714 home runs?

The answer is that the odds are heavily against the Atlanta Brave slugger, who has the 493rd of his career in a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday night, but that he undoubtedly will have a better chance that any other slugger in history. That includes Willie Mays, who now ranks second on the all-time list with 576.

Aaron, who is tied with Lou Gehrig for eighth place on the list, needs 23 more this season to equal Ruth's total of 516 at the completion of his 34th year. The rub is that Ruth hit 198 more homers in his six remaining seasons and Aaron, now in his 34th year, expects to have only "three or four more good seasons."

Nearing Cutoff Mays, Mantle, fourth on the list, and Mathews (6th) are still active, of course, but each is 37 and only Mays is in good enough physical condition to consider the possibility of catching Ruth.

Honor two

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the Oakland Athletics, two of baseball's top pitchers, have been named co-winners of the Van Heusen Outstanding Achievement Award for April and May.

Drysdale established major league records for most consecutive scoreless innings (58 2-3) and most consecutive shutouts (6) during the April-May period while Hunter became the first American League pitcher to hurl a perfect game in 46 years when he beat Minnesota 4-0 on May 8.

Advances

PALM BEACH GARDENS (UPI)—Lee TREVINO, WINNER OF THE U.S. Open Sunday, has vaulted into fourth place in the PGA earnings list.

Trevino, who earned $30,000 for his victory at Rochester, N.Y., now trails only George Archer ($84,780), Tom Weiskopf ($86,756) and Billy Casper ($126,760) in total earnings for the year.

Oliver joins IU staff

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI)—Jerry Oliver, one of Indiana's most successful high school basketball coaches, was named Monday as assistant basketball coach at Indiana University, succeeding Don Luft.

Oliver, 37, guided Indianapolis Washington to the 1965 Indiana high school basketball championship and later was named Indiana High School Coach of the Year for his efforts.

Luft will become Varsity Club director of the I.U. Alumni

Foundation. Head coach Lou Watson said Oliver's record "speaks for itself. He will make a fine addition to our staff."

Oliver, in eight seasons as coach of the Continentals, compiled a record of 162 victories against only 36 losses for a percentage of .818. His teams won four of the last six city titles and three state titles.

"We regret losing the services of Don Luft... but we are happy, however, that he will still be working closely with our athletic program in his new position," said I.U. athletic director J. W. (Bill) Orwig.

Luft, who coached at Indiana seven years, formerly was a football star at I.U. and later with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

Luft coached freshman basketball four seasons at Indiana before moving up to varsity assistant in 1965 when Watson was advanced from assistant to head coach, replacing the retiring Branch McCracken.

Oliver, a 1953 graduate of Ball State University, was assistant coach at Indianapolis Washington from 1955 to 1960 when he became head coach.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A BROWN GRADUATE'S weekly poker orgy lasted so long one Saturday night that he decided to go straight from the game to church where, when the collection plate was passed, he absent-mindedly donated a blue poker chip instead of his usual half-dollar. His indulgent pastor caught the transaction with his all-seeing eyes. The next morning the son of Brown University received a small package in the mail. It contained two blue chips with a note from the pastor reading, "I'll raise you one."

A phony antique dealer put on display in his gallery an "old, old" bench supposedly made in Spain during the Inquisition. A nouveau riche matron yearned for it—especially when she learned how expensive it was—and finally bought it. That's when it was discovered the bench was so big they couldn't get it through THE DOOR OF THE GALLERY.

That once very popular "Fractured French" word game has been revived by Publicist Gary Stevens, who set the ball rolling with these nominations in "Variety" that he called "Fractured DeGaulle":

L'ESCARGOT: Let's travel by auto.
DEBUSSY: The maid says they're busy.
BIZET: Dial again in three minutes.
DE GAULLE: Some nerve!
DAUPHIN: A fan made of deerskins.

Wants tighter firearm legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Private groups including some supporters of the late Robert F. Kennedy Tuesday threw their weight behind the administration drive for tighter firearm controls.

Formal announcement of the organization's formation was scheduled at a news conference following a midafternoon meeting with Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

The nucleus of the organization is an Emergency Committee for Gun Control, a special group set up by the National Council for a Responsible Firearms policy. The council's chairman, former U.S. Prisons Director James V. Bennett, will help coordinate the effort.

David J. Steinberg, executive director of the committee, said that several young workers from the Kennedy campaign have volunteered support, along with a least 30 separate organizations interested in controlling guns.

In addition, the group has the volunteer services of Papert & Koenig, Inc., a New York advertising and public relations firm which was retained by the Kennedy campaign organization.

The committee drew up three main goals—a ban on interstate mail order sales of both handguns and rifles; registration of all guns by the states, with federal intervention to require this if necessary; and requirement of a permit from local police to purchase a gun.

Creation of the group came as support continued building on Capitol Hill for tougher gun controls, and for overriding President Johnson should he veto the omnibus anticrime bill which carries a ban on mail order sales of handguns.

A senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., was meeting in closed session Tuesday to speed action on a bill to limit sales of both hand and long guns.

The panel, a subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee, was reported closely divided on the measure.

While the President continued to defer action on the crime measure, the administration pushed for its own legislation which would extend the ban to rifles and shotguns and restrict store sales inside a state to residents 21 or over.

If the President neither signed nor vetoed the anticrime legislation sent to his desk shortly after the Robert Kennedy assassination, it would become law automatically at midnight Wednesday.

The omnibus bill, passed essentially as written by the Senate Judiciary Committee, also contains administration-opposed provisions designed to overturn Supreme Court rulings against admissibility of certain criminal confessions and eyewitness testimony, and to allow wiretapping in certain types of criminal cases.

Local youth in DPU chemistry

Dwight Matthews, 615 E. Washington, is one of 36 high school students from 15 states chosen for a summer chemistry institute at DePauw University. He attends Greencastle High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Matthews.

The seven-week session, sponsored by the private university and the National Science Foundation, opens June 19 and concludes August 7.

Dwight was chosen for the intensive program from more than 220 applicants who were vying for stipends that pay for rooms and board, tuition, and book costs for the young chemists.

The curriculum will emphasize lectures on selected theoretical principles of chemistry, lab work emphasizing selected techniques, data collection and interpretation, application of computer techniques to chemical problems.

The instructional faculty will be staffed by three DePauw chemistry professors, headed by Dr. Eugene Schwartz. Three DePauw undergraduates, chemistry students themselves, will serve as laboratory assistants and resident dormitory counselors.

Defeated gird to support victorious GOP slate

By HORTENSE MYERS
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The victors looked toward the responsibilities they will meet if they defeat the nominees of Friday's Democratic convention; the losers tossed their banners and their hopes onto the trash left behind by the Republican state convention, Tuesday.

Handsomeness Secretary of State Edgar D. Whitcomb congratulated the two men he defeated—House Speaker Otis Bowen and former U.S. assistant Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz—on the "great way" they had campaigned for governor.

Bowen made a little speech in which he said he was "more disappointed for those who worked so hard for me" than he was for himself. He and his wife, Beth, plan "a couple days off—then I have to go to work."

Bowen, a family physician in Bremen, faces another campaign this fall since he is a nominee for return to the House of Representatives.

Butz said "the taste of defeat is never sweet" but confirmed that he has received several job offers which pay more than he would have received had he been elected governor and would allow him more time with his family. He and his wife, Mary Emma, and other members of his family plan a Florida vacation first.

Whitcomb and his wife, Pat, said they will take a few days vacation—at home with their children in Seymour, before he returns to the Secretary of State office.

Whitcomb talked with news-men about future financing of state government (he believes taxes may need to be reshuffled but not necessarily increased except for the possibility of gasoline taxes), about comprehensive mental health centers (they should not be an entirely local burden), about Dunes State Park (don't give it to the federal government), about the proposed police academy (if it proves expensive in taxes it may be delayed; and the Department of Correction (should be more efficient).

Even as he talked, the big Coliseum at the Indiana Fairgrounds emptied, and the clean-up crews began work, in preparation for the Democratic convention which also will nominate 15 prospective state officials, Friday.

On the floor were many of the signs and banners that had been waved so enthusiastically a short time before by the losers, mixed up with the empty lunch boxes, discarded beverage cans and cigarette packages.

Now and then, a loser marched out with a banner still held upright, as if he wanted to save it as a reminder of the long and expensive road which led to defeat.

---Dr. King's dream

Thousands of union members, teachers, clergymen, government workers and students were gathered around noon EDT at the base of the Washington Monument to join the five-sixths of a mile march to the Lincoln Memorial for an afternoon of speeches by top figures in the campaign, including Mrs. King.

Ordered for the marchers were neatly printed signs—25,000 of them—bearing such slogans as "Jobs or income for all Americans," "I have a dream...one America," and "End hunger in America."

Entertainment was on tap at both the monument and the memorial for two hours before the march, featuring Eartha Kitt, Marlon Brando, Peter, Paul and Mary, and others.

Provide For Congressmen March leaders made chartered buses, and front row seats at the memorial, available for members of Congress wishing to attend.

The route was along Independence Avenue and both sides of the Reflecting Pool between the two monuments, passing Resurrection City, USA, the muddy, tent-shack city of the campaign.

Among those taking part were presidential hopeful Sen. Eugene McCarthy; Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, and the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The show of "black and white together" unity was reminiscent of the 1963 rights march.

The bitter disputes within the top echelon of the SCLC indicated the 49-year-old campaign was on the verge of collapse in squabbles over leadership, goals and methods. Change in Plane

Five weeks ago, the Rev. Bernard Lafayette, then national director of the campaign, predicted 1 million marchers on Memorial Day, May 30.

Now Lafayette has been removed from his job. The march was postponed 19 days, and official estimates by Abernathy predicted only 40,000 marchers, although SCLC aides said he hoped for more.

Bayard Rustin, the man who organized more than 200,000 marchers for the 1963 rally, quit as head of "Solidarity Day" when Abernathy refused to give him complete authority to run the march.

Despite the dissension, Abernathy continues to seek an extension of the Interior Department permit to use the mall between the monuments for Resurrection City. He insists that "permit or no permit, we will be here until the Congress adjourns or until it does something about the plight of the poor people in America."

The federal permit was extended from last Sunday's expiration date to next Sunday, and no decision has been announced on further extensions.

Reports murder

MOSCOW (UPI)—In a rare crime report for a country where murder and disaster seldom get in print, the government newspaper Isvestia Tuesday said that two coeds at a technological school were found dead and that a 30-year-old photographer had confessed to killing them. The newspaper did not elaborate.

Opening lead—jack of hearts. This hand occurred in a team match. It features good bidding and good play.

South (Harold Ogust) responded to the diamond opening with a modest one heart. When North raised to two hearts, Ogust bid two spades, and when North jumped to four hearts, Ogust realized there was a good chance of making a grand slam.

The only cards he needed were the A-K of hearts and a good diamond suit. In order to learn more about the trump situation, Ogust jumped to five trumps, deliberately by-passing Blackwood.

Television in review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — By chance, I recently came across stories in my files that I had done on Alfred Hitchcock, Gary Cooper and Carl Sandburg—the subject of violent entertainment.

All these stories were done in the early 1960s, and in view of the current furor over violence in television and movies, provoked by the killing of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, it may be interesting to consider these views of almost a decade ago.

Hitchcock said in an interview that the public was the real villain that caused so much violence on television.

"After all," he said, "when parents buy their children cowboy costumes, they almost always include guns, don't they? Who allows children to carry a gun? Parents, that's who."

He added: "It's a deep-rooted matter in America. People are only more aware of violence now because it comes into homes via TV."

Notes Western Violence
"Westerns are the main source of violence," he said, adding with a bit of a put-on, "They make me squeamish."

Hot Film

WHITSTABLE, England (UPI)—It's real cops, not Keystone cops, in the latest police chase involving Charlie Chaplin.

Someone stole a 54-year-old Chaplin film from a car here. Officers who started an area-wide search warned that the old film has a high nitrate content and could explode into flame at the slightest exposure to heat.

After ruffing a spade in dummy, he led a diamond to the ace and a low one back to the ten. The finesse succeeding, he could then claim the grand slam, worth 2,210 points.

Ogust reasoned that if West had had eight clubs he would very likely have entered the bidding at some point. Since West had been silent throughout, Ogust credited him with two spades and a heart (both proven), only seven clubs, and, hence, three diamonds.

McCarthy raps executive power

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy today attacked "undue extensions of executive power" and said he would offer a new concept of the office of President.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the American Newspaper Guild convention here, McCarthy said 1968 has been a year of "questioning and testing both the substance and the processes of American institutions."

Among the important questions, he said, were:

"Have the major decision in

Republicans urge strong stand

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Indiana Republicans were urged Monday night by their state convention keynote speaker to take a strong position on Vietnam. But the party's proposed state platform mentioned only "the strongest defense possible against Communism."

Indianapolis Mayor Richard G. Lugar, the keynote speaker, termed as "equally bankrupt" the position of President Johnson and Vice President Hubert Humphrey and the solution of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, all Democrats.

Lugar said the President and Vice President "are engaged in negotiations which may determine with finality that our sacrifice was in vain" and that McCarthy wants "to cut our losses now in the abrupt fashion often employed by professionals in the stock market."

"The United States of America cannot walk away from world responsibilities," Lugar said. "It is unthinkable to me that we would walk away from sacrifice already made by so many young Americans certain that they were protecting the freedom we enjoy here at this convention."

Lugar proposed the election of a "Republican President who says that we will define what we are doing in Vietnam in terms that each citizen can understand and then we will attain those aims using all necessary strength."

"We will not seek war with the Soviet Union or Communist China, but we will not be deterred from the maintenance of political freedom in the world by the imagined or real threats of any other nation," Lugar said.

The proposed platform submitted to the convention failed to specifically mention Vietnam. It contained a pledge "to be ever on guard against individuals or groups advocating the overthrow of our government and we insist on the strongest defense possible against Communism."

"The Republican Party believes that the American flag, and all for which it stands, should ever be revered and honored, and that it should never be a symbol for surrender or dishonorable peace," the proposed resolution said.

On taxes, the suggested platform called on the Legislature to "recognize the inequities of our assessment system and take positive action to inaugurate corrective measures."

Vietnam been taken without full democratic review?

"Has the integrity of Congress, of the cabinet and of the military been impinged upon by undue extensions of the executive power?"

"Have the poor and the black people been excluded from political representation and economic participation?"

"Have the young people and the intellectuals lost faith in America's capacity to govern itself?"

McCarthy blamed protest strikes and sit-ins on a loss of faith in government.

"In nearly every case the protestors believed that the traditional avenues of democratic protest were closed to them. The protests against the war and for civil rights called into question the ability of the American system to respond to the needs and values of the people," he said.

McCarthy said he would offer an alternative to "the sort of presidential power which extends itself in a personal way into every institution of government."

"Democracy cannot work solely from the top, nor can institutions be shaped to the personal will of a leader. When a cabinet becomes 'my cabinet' or a party becomes 'my party' the process of government is distorted," he said.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK Looking Back to 1868

39-D Last week in June 1868, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Louisiana were re-granted representation in Congress over President Johnson's veto. This and readmission of Arkansas representation to Congress earlier in June (also over veto), were pre-conditions to implementation of the 14th Amendment in the Constitution by duress.

Ratification of the Amendment by ten Southern States still in secession had been required by an Act of Congress as a condition of readmission to the Union. Questionable validity of ratifications thus obtained induced Congress to take the unusual course of passing a resolution directing the Secretary of State to promulgate the Amendment. In both North Carolina and South Carolina, where incumbent legislatures rejected the Amendment. New legislatures were constituted under pressure by Union army occupation forces and ratifications obtained in these July 20, the day before Congress' resolution.

Secretary W. H. Seward waited until July 28, after a similarly constituted new legislature in Georgia had annulled a previous legislative rejection, to proclaim the Amendment in effect. He ignored declared withdrawals of ratifications by New York and New Jersey.

The last sentence of the first section went far beyond establishment of Negro rights, for it provided, "No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." This was inserted by John A. Bingham of Ohio, to remedy what he deemed a defect in the original Constitution, which imposed limitations on Congress, not on the legislatures. The "due process" clause was to be the basis of revolutionary U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

Article XIV.

Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Prince of Wales joins order

WINDSOR, England (UPI)—With two sword taps on the shoulder from his mother and shouts of "good old Charlie" from the people he will one day rule, the Prince of Wales Monday became the youngest Knight of the Garter.

His dubbing and his donning of the gold and blue garter and its accoutrements made him a member of the six-century-old chivalric order which sprang from a king's courtesy to a countess whose garter broke during a palace dance.

"Evil to him who evil thinks," King Edward II declared to courtiers who dared laugh when he picked up the broken garter of the Countess of Salisbury, the celebrated beauty known as Joan, the fair maid of Kent.

The words of the motto in Latin were adopted as a royal motto and embroidered in gold on the garters bestowed on the handful of knights from that day to this honored for their service to the crown.

The Garter is the highest personal honor the British monarch can bestow. Only the sovereign and 24 knights and four ladies may be members at any one time.

Prince Charles, the heir to the British throne, has been a knight since he was nine but had to wait until he came of age to rule for the ceremony of investiture.

In the ancient ceremony, Queen Elizabeth first buckled the garter around his white-silk-stockinged leg, then placed the blue ribbon of the order over his shoulder, affixed the garter star, placed the heavy blue silk mantle over his shoulders and put around his neck the gold and enameled collar with its pendant of St. George fighting the dragon.

Broadway goes on the bricks

NEW YORK (UPI)—In any group of dancing girls there is one you watch more than the others. Such a girl is flame-haired, trim-limbed Nicole Barth, who dances in the Broadway musical "The Happy Time."

Nicole did not dance Monday night. Nor did the show's star, Robert Goulet, wow the matrons on the aisle. Broadway's 21 legitimate theaters were closed.

In place of dancing tights, Nicole slipped into a brown miniskirt and white calf-length boots and walked in the drizzle to the third floor of the Diplomat Hotel to the room the establishment is pleased to call its grand ballroom.

She attended the hippest union meeting in town—a strike strategy session of Actors Equity Association.

Actors Equity, for the third time in eight years, Monday night darkened the Great White Way with a strike. Also closed were the road companies of "I Do! I Do!" "Cabaret" and "Cactus Flower" in Los Angeles, "Man of La Mancha" in Detroit, "Mame" in San Francisco, "Fiddler on the Roof" in Las Vegas, "Star Spangled Girl" in Wilmington, Del., "Hello Dolly!" in Lambertville, N.J., and "You Know I Can't Hear You when the Water's Running" in Chicago.

The strike idled 500 actors, singers and dancers in New York and 330 on the road. Producer David Merrick promptly posted permanent closing notices on two of his Broadway shows—"I Do! I Do!" and "How Now, Dow Jones"—and intemperately predicted the strike "will last five years."

Though no negotiations were scheduled, union officers said they hoped it would be a short strike. Their longest running production was an 11-day walkout in 1960. The 1964 strike darkened the marquees only one night.

Equity seeks a two and one-half year contract to replace the four-year pact that expired June 2, an increase in the minimum salary from $130 a week to $200, veto power on the hiring of all nonresident alien actors instead of the present 70-30 per cent ratio of Americans to aliens, out-of-town weekly differential of $100 and no reduction in the members of a chorus of a musical after 20 weeks, which now is permitted.

LBJ winds up sojourn

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—President Johnson winds up a five-day sojourn at his LBJ ranch Tuesday. He plans to fly back to Washington about mid-day, arriving at the White House late in the afternoon.

Johnson's press secretary said there were no pressing appointments for the President Tuesday, but that his advisors were keeping him informed on the latest developments in the new Berlin crisis.

Johnson assured West German Chancellor Kurt Kiesinger Monday that the United States commitment to a free Berlin and united German people remains as "firm as ever." He accused Communist East Germany of "totally unprovoked and unjustified aggression" in its crackdown on travel to Berlin.
